

Untitled

Wish for the stars, reach for the moon.
Inside your heart, feel the love.
Never give up on things you dream to do.
Gather together and share the love,
Saving the planet with peace and love.

Often loving, sharing & being kind to each other,
Feeling the peace like a floating feather.

Helping people and loving them no matter how mean or nice they are.
Observe the loving you get when you are nice and kind.
Play with each other and include everyone in your games
Everyone is capable of love, no matter how mean or selfish they are.

Just One Wish

I made a wish,
Upon a star.
I wished for just one thing,
And maybe just a little more.
In just one poem,
In just one wish.

I wished that when I dreamed of something happy, and I will be happy
I wished that when I dreamed of something sad, and I will be sad
I wished that when We dreamed of a future, We will have one

I wished that when I envisioned a world of freedom, and I will be free
I wished that when I envisioned a world war free, all fights will end
I wished that when We envisioned world peace, We will have it

I wished that when I hoped for my family,
they will hope for me back
I wished that when I hoped for my friends,
they will receive love
I wished that when We hoped for ourselves,
We will get what we need

I wished that I could live life, to its very fullest
I wished that I could live life, while making other people better
I wished that We could live life, with no regrets

So now you see,
What We have done.
And what let us down,
Will lift us up.
And all it takes,
Is just one thing.
One wish is all it takes.
